Welcome to the CARE Curriculum!

Thank you for joining our efforts to make a big difference in the lives of children through the C.A.R.E. Curriculum (CARE). The CARE Curriculum is an integrated social studies and health program that takes elementary students on an engaging journey of self-discovery and learning. Created by teachers for teachers, CARE is designed to be both meaningful and motivating to students as they gain a greater understanding of themselves and the world around them.

The CARE Curriculum is uniquely designed to teach the subjects of social studies and health in the context of personal and social development. Students learn through creative stories and hands-on activities that make learning fun and relevant to their lives.

While the CARE Curriculum is a social studies and health program, it is designed to address the need for more reading and writing activities in the classroom and may be included in the language arts block of learning time.

The CARE Curriculum is designed to meet educational standards mandated by state and consists of four six-week units. Each unit contains four weeks of instruction, one week of review and assessment, and one week of community learning and service projects. Games and other fun activities are included to reinforce unit concepts.

We know teachers are busy and they need educational materials that are both effective learning tools and time efficient. The CARE Curriculum is designed to minimize the time needed for lesson planning. CARE is user-friendly for teachers and all required materials and games are included with the exception of common supplies teachers have on hand in the classroom.

Heartstrings Publishing is a low-profit company that is dedicated to providing quality learning materials that will educate, inspire and awaken children to their true potential. Our goal is to help every child in America access the CARE Program that gives educators the opportunity and tools they need to create a more caring, tolerant and safe place for children to learn.

Why Do Children Desperately Need C.A.R.E.?^{*}

Today children face a complex and often scary social world. In the home, media exposes young minds to a constant barrage of violence and unwholesome images. More and more, children see American society as a place of violence, social unrest, racial tension and general disrespect for authority and others.

Bullying and other forms of violence are now everyday occurrences in schools across the country. This increase in school violence and antisocial behavior is a disturbing sign that something needs to change. Suicide, social stress and mental health issues are becoming real problems in our schools and require a proactive not reactive approach. Educators and parents recognize the problem and want a solution. With C.A.R.E., we believe our schools hold the answer.

How Can C.A.R.E. Change Children's Lives?

Each day the nation's schools gather nearly all children from ages 5 to 18 within their walls. This provides an amazing opportunity to influence our children as well as teach academic subjects. Given the right tools, teachers and school administrators have the opportunity and potential to be powerful agents of change for the benefit of our next generation. This "change" can be a cultural shift towards a healthier society. It must begin with the youngest children in our schools and spread to the community at large - creating a more caring, tolerant, and safe school and community environment.

But to make such a difference in the lives of our children requires C.A.R.E. and a unified effort among parents, schools, government and concerned groups, organizations and businesses. A commitment to our children is a commitment to a better tomorrow for America. We believe the responsibility lies with all of us, and the time for action is now!

With C.A.R.E. children will acquire the skills and knowledge needed to better understand themselves, communicate and connect with others in a healthy way, and solve real-world problems in difficult social contexts. C.A.R.E. takes a holistic approach, developing students mentally, physically, emotionally and socially. It empowers them to live healthy and meaningful lives, while making the world a better place through good character development, citizenship, and compassionate service to others.

The C.A.R.E. Curriculum is created to be a free or low-cost tool for schools to educate, inspire and awaken children to their true potential. We hope that every child in America will have this educational opportunity. Through the support of parents and schools, as well as partnerships with government and others, C.A.R.E. can make a huge difference in the lives of our children.

Where Do Educators Find Time to Teach C.A.R.E.?

C.A.R.E. is a social studies and health curriculum created by teachers for teachers, with a clear understanding that every minute in the classroom counts and students must become proficient in the areas of reading, writing and mathematics. C.A.R.E. is an integrated program that addresses the need for more reading and writing time, and teaches social studies and health in a unique language arts format. The

C.A.R.E. Curriculum presents social studies, health and character education through imaginative stories and entertaining activities that reinforces reading and writing skills, and encourages a love of literature.

The unique storybook format and colorful illustrations engage students and make learning fun, while the teacher follows simple, step-by-step instructions that minimize lesson planning and implementation time. C.A.R.E. is so user-friendly that teachers can, literally, just pick up The CARE Guide and the lesson begins! All required materials and games are included, except for the common supplies teachers have on hand, such as crayons, markers, glue, scissors and paper.

What if Kids Thought Learning Was Fun and Meaningful?

Wouldn't it be great if kids thought learning was fun and meaningful? What if they were motivated to explore health, history, civics and geography to find out more about themselves and the world around them? Students often lack interest in learning such academic subjects. They soon forget information that stays in their "heads" and doesn't move to their "hearts." C.A.R.E. takes the natural exuberance children have for learning about the world around them and puts it into action. Students learn key concepts through interesting stories, reinforce learning with fun activities, and apply knowledge by doing meaningful social projects. Using this paradigm, The C.A.R.E. Curriculum helps students find purpose in learning.

But What Specifically Does C.A.R.E. Teach Children?

C.A.R.E. teaches children to explore and better understand:

- SELF - through self-awareness and personal development
- OTHERS - through family life and social development
- COMMUNITY - through school and civic responsibility
- THE WORLD - through social action and real-world projects.

Let's take a closer look at the specifics...
